FEMALE DYNAMITERS.

They Hold a Mass Meeting in New York.

England to Be Fought Not With Arms or Moral Sunstion, But With Dynamite.

New York, July 4.—A mass-meeting was held Monday night in the Cooper Union, under the auspices of the Ladies Irish Aid Society, for the purpose of raising funds for the families of "those men who recently died for Ireland." The reading-desk was surmounted by a harp draped in cape. The desk was also draped in black and pendant from it was a wreath of amlax. The pillars in rear of the platform were entwined with black, in the folds of which were inserted small twigs of fern leaves. The most notable dynamiters were present.

At 8:45 Mrs. Kate Biggs, the President of the association, called the meeting to order and nominated Mr. P. J. Sheridan as chairman. Mr. Sheridan was received with much enthusiasm. He said that he had been too short a time in this country to be entitled to such applause, but he was not vain enough to appropriate it to himself, and knew that it was a tribute to the cause which he represented. He would observe that whatever he might say, he desired to be held personally responsible for his utterances, and he said this because he presumed that some things which he might say would be flashed across the ocean, and he did not wish it understood that he spoke for any one but himself. He was not a member of the Irish Nationalist Association, either of Ireland or of America. They were here first to pay a tribute of respect to those who had laid down their lives for the cause of Ireland and to sympathize with their families; and next to renew their vows of allegiance to their native land, and to assert that in her defense they had a right to use all means which education and the sciences placed at their disposal. (Great cheering and cries of "Dynamite.") It had been said that it was inhuman to use scientific modes of warfare that had not heretofore been used, and the discussion had been provoked by the acts of a few brave men inspired by patriotism. (Great applause.) They would be placed upon the roll of Irish martyrs. "So long as Irish history shall last," said the speaker, "the names of Joe Brady—(applause)—Daniel Kearney, Michael Fagan and the boy hero Timothy Kelly shall be revered by every Irishman worthy of the name." (Long-continued applause.)

The next speaker was Dr. Hamilton Williams, who said that he wished to put himself upon the record as heartily approving of all that had been done by the men who had recently suffered in Ireland. "Yes," he continued, "even to the shedding of the blood of the stranger in Phoenix Park." There was only one doctrine for Irishmen, and that was the doctrine of eternal hate to England. (Great applause.) "You cannot achieve your liberty unless you are prepared to fight for it, and you cannot succeed unless you are prepared to adopt the only method by which Irishmen can fight England at the present time.

After several speeches the following resolutions were read and adopted:

"Whereas, We have assembled here to night to mingle our tears with those of the immediate relatives of the martyred Brady, Curley, Fagan and Kelly, and also to condole with families of Fitzharris, Joseph Mullic and Lawrence Hanlon, who were sent to a living death, all of whose lives and liberties were sacrificed on the perjured purchased testimony of Crown approvers, aided by suborned judges and packed juries; and,

"Whereas, While we mourn and condole our hearts are proudly raised and buoyed up with the thought that, after seven centuries of rule by the sword, England has yet to conquer Ireland, and that during all these centuries a generation of Irishmen has never passed away without leaving as a heritage to their successors a protest written in blood against English tyranny; and,

"Whereas, It is well known to every Irishman and to all others who take an interest in knowing that England rules Ireland by brutal force and contrary to the wishes of the vast majority of the Irish people; therefore,

"Resolved, That any person entering Ireland officially commissioned by England to any administrative office enters at his peril, and that any Irishman accepting an administrative office from England in Ireland is a traitor to his country and race, and should be dealt with accordingly.

"Resolved, That the time has arrived for Irishmen to use every weapon which nature and science have furnished to protect the oppressed against the oppressor.

"Resolved, That the sincere sympathy of this meeting be tendered to the families of Dr. Gallagher and his associates in the dock who were convicted and sentenced to life long imprisonment not to vindicate the law but to avenge the English clunor for Irish victims.

"Resolved, That from this day forth the families of men who love life and liberty shall be the welcome wards of grateful race, and that from this meeting a committee be formed who shall communicate with Irish men and women throughout the States with the object of forming a permanent association, to be called the Irish National Aid and Defense Association, the business of said association being to provide for the families of all men who may lose either life or liberty in the service of Ireland."

Telegrams were read from Chicago, Maryland, Peoria, Ill., Stamford, Conn. and San Francisco. The latter was accompanied with "$25 for families and $100 to Ross for dynamite," which was received with great applause.

A LONG SLEEP.

A Physical Phenomenon That is a Puzzle to Scientists.

Mr. Wenzer Platt Has Been Taking a Protracted Nap of 191 Days and Still Sound asleep.

NEWTOWN, Conn., July 4.—A singular case of lethargic existence is now the talk of Newtown. The sleeper is Sherman W. Platt, who has always resided with his father, Mr. Wenzer Platt, a well-to-do farmer whose place is located four miles distant from Newtown Center. Young Mr. Platt is a well-built man about thirty-five years of age. He had always assisted his father in the working of a large farm. During the spring of 1882 he was attacked with malaria, and while he was treated for it and appeared to have recovered, was never since wholly free from its effects. With the arrival of summer he worked on the farm, displaying few convalescent symptoms, and during the haying period was as active as any. One day, however, he was affected more than usual by the heat, and, while not overcome by it, lay down on the hay under a tree to rest, hoping to feel better after a short nap. It proved to be a long one, however, for although his days of consecutive sleep did not then begin the influence which tended to make protracted sleep possible instituted its work. While under the tree the belief is entertained by his mother that he suffered sunstroke, for on being removed to the house he acted and talked strangely, and never since seemed to be himself. Whether it was malaria, sunstroke or the two combined that produced his present condition is not certain. It is that after last Thanksgiving Day (November 30) he kept himself aloof, remained most of the time within doors and a few days before Christmas sank into a deep sleep in his bed, continuing there till the latter part of January, scarcely changing his position or recognizing persons in attendance, and not once rousing from his stupor. Toward spring there was a slight change in the sleeper, which was manifested by an inclination to move, but he did not open his eyes, and during three months since his semi-consciousness set in he has eaten scarcely enough to sustain life.

What influence kept life in him is more than any one can tell. He was bolstered up in bed, still with closed eyes and mouth sealed against speech. He expressed by sound or motion no evidence of suffering, and his silence seemed to indicate that his wish was simply to be left alone. Later he was assisted to a sitting position, but the affectionate words of his relatives were taken to his ears in vain. At last he was taken from the bed and his clothes put on. This was brought about with difficulty, as he was like one with no life—no muscular power. In April he began to walk trembly, at first holding on by articles of furniture and afterward he could stand and walk alone. No kind appeal succeeded in drawing from him even the reply of a syllable. As the days came and went he walked from his bed to the chair and back again to bed. Daily, like an infant, he was dressed and undressed. Evidences of returning strength have been marked since the arrival of warm weather, but reason only in part. A while ago he scented the way to the household pantry, and he has since at nearly regular intervals oscillated between the chair and cupboard shelves. When moving his eyes have opened partially, and he has uttered involuntary words only, but none which could be understood or accepted as intelligent. On rising in the morning after sleeping soundly at night he is regularly dressed, like a baby, and led to his chair, where he immediately sinks to sleep. When hunger prompts he rises, proceeds to the pantry, eats, returns to the chair, sleeps and when night comes is undressed and goes to sleep again. In winter and early spring, or before the nature of his strange case was known, many visitors were admitted to see the person who could sleep so long and live, but of late no one is allowed to see the patient save the immediate members of his family. The period of his lethargy at this writing covers 191 days.

A REVOLUTIONARY SOCIETY

It is Reported to be International and Stronger Than the Irish Association, and Has Condemned Chief Justice Coleridge to Death.

NEW YORK, July 4.—It has been announced that Lord Chief Justice Coleridge will visit the United States the latter part of July or early in August, and will be the guest of the New York Bar Association and of the leading lawyers and judges throughout the country. If the Chief Justice has any strong inclination for a prolonged life he will not only remain away from the United States, but will keep a careful watch upon himself in England if the following extract from statements made to a reporter of the Mercury by a prominent dynamiter may be considered reliable, as they are alleged to be, although his name is withheld:

"You say you go in with the Irish dynamite party in such work as the removal of Coleridge. Is any such work contemplated?" the Mercury asked. "Yes, his death sentence has been passed. Any man who says a usurping tyrant, or the representative of such, we consider a hero, and if he dies for it we regard him as a martyr—much more of a martyr than the men who were burned at the stake, because the latter suffered merely on account of stubborn bigotry of creed, while our martyr suffers for the noble cause of mankind and human liberty. You will see we are not hair-brained, wild, unreasoning men. We look deeply into things and build our codes on the very foundations of things."

"Is there any alliance or understanding between the various revolutionary organizations—for instance, between the Internationalists of Germany, France, Italy, etc.

the Nihilists of Russia, the Irish dynamite party, the Black Hand of Spain and the others?" "Some of the organizations you name are isolated. But as far as this country is concerned, there is a society greater still—a secret society—the strongest branch of the International Workingmen's Secret Revolutionary Society. They are all working for the emancipation of the workingman and the destruction of tyrants and tyranny in any and all forms."

"What will be the result of such a union?"

"I can not tell. I can only say that it cannot help being beneficial to the cause of labor and of Irish freedom. This alliance has been secretly talked of for quite a considerable time; but the officers of the secret branch were waiting until the Irish dynamite men would demonstrate their sincerity and prove that the science which they claim to teach in their schools was the thing they represented it to be. The explosion in London fully demonstrated both of these, and the seizure of the nitroglycerine factories in Birmingham and Cork plainly showed that the Irish explosion party was in for work. After this, all opposition was withdrawn, and the secret Union ratified the compact."

To the question of how strong is the Irish dynamite party, a prominent leader replied:

"There is a great misconception as to that. We have all the Irishmen who amount to anything with us, and in our ranks are included clergymen of different persuasions. A clergyman acted as ruling judge on the trials of Coleridge and some others I will not mention. A mighty change is taking place in men's minds, and much as the first three-quarters of the nineteenth century has accomplished, the next fifteen years will cast it all in the shade. There will be few thrones in Europe when the morning of New Year's day, 1900, dawns."

TO EXPLORE GREENLAND,

And Determine the Question If Icy Mountains Enclose Green Fields.

LONDON, July 4.—A special from Finland to the Times says: "Professor Norden-skjold sailed yesterday from Gothenburg on his tenth Arctic expedition. He was born in Finland just fifty years ago. Half his lifetime has been spent in Arctic exploration, or in making preparations for it.

The Soffa, which has been lent by the Swedish Government, is a small steamer, carefully fitted for the work she has to do, which is not specially dangerous. None of the Vega staff accompany their old leader to Greenland, though science is well represented on the Soffa. Norden-skjold is supported by Dr. Nathorst as geologist and paleontologist, Herr Kolthoff for birds and insects, Dr. Hamberg as hydrographer, Dr. Berlin as surgeon and naturalist in general, and Herr Forstrand as preserver of specimens. As ice-masters one of the boldest Norwegian skippers has been selected. Johansen, who in his walrus schooner has sailed far beyond the north point of Navly Zemlyn. The crew consists of twenty-four men.

His main object is to penetrate into the heart of Greenland, in order to test his theory that the permanent ice is really only a band surrounding the interior, which in summer, at least, is literally a land of greenery. In this trying journey Norden-skjold will be accompanied by at least one of his staff and ten of his crew, and will be equipped with all the appliances requisite for ice traveling. In providing this equipment he has been guided not only by the experience of Alpine climbers, but by the knowledge he acquired twelve years ago, when, in company with Palander, he succeeded in penetrating thirty miles inland from the head of Aulieitvik Fjord, his starting point in the present expedition. About thirty or forty miles from the coast the interior seems to rise suddenly like a huge wall of ice, clef here and there, fortunately, by valleys, by means of which the expedition will be able to reach the uneven plateaus of the interior. The first forty miles are likely to be the most trying; the coast region is cut up by gaping crevasses and broad rivers in the midst of rugged hills of ice, and these will necessitate long detours. The rivers, as a rule, terminate in magnificent waterfalls, which plunge suddenly into what seem to be bottomless abysses of ice. In his former journey Norden-skjold attained a height of about 2,000 feet, and east and north the country seemed to rise gradually, and presented the appearance of a billowy sea suddenly frozen. Aulieitvik Fjord, from which the expedition will start on its journey, opens just below Disco Island, and penetrates a considerable distance into the land. At this point Greenland is about its broadest, so that the line of exploration has been well chosen to test the theory that has prompted the expedition. This theory is no new one on the part of Norden-skjold, for as long ago as his former expedition of 1870 he seems to have come to the conclusion that Illeb's "icy mountains" were confined to the regions of the Greenland coast, surrounding a land comparatively free from ice, and even wooded in its southern parts. If Norden-skjold succeeds in confirming his hypothesis it will be one of the triumphs of scientific prodition.

ARMED AGAINST FRANCE.

A Distinguished Italian Officer's Opinion of Existing Military Defenses.

ROME, July 4.—A Press representative has had the following conversation with a distinguished Italian officer on the military situation of France and Italy.

Question.—What do you think of the chances of France in the event of a fresh German invasion?

Answer.—It would be difficult almost impossible, to prevent the Germans from entering France and marching straight to Paris. The French having lost their natural safeguards on the frontier are doing their best to replace them by artificial ones. They are building forts, constructing entrenched camps in many places, but they would all (on the side of Germany), I think, be powerless to stop the invader long and the French army would have to retire under the walls of Paris.

Question.—What is your opinion of the new Paris fortification?

Answer.—I know them only by books, but it seems to me that it would now require three times as many men, indeed, perhaps half the German army, to take Paris as it did in 1871, and that it would be almost impossible to starve it by cutting off supplies. Nothing military, however, is absolutely impossible.

Question.—What do you know of French and Italian military preparations?

Answer.—France having rightly or wrongly taken it into her head that it may some day find Germany and Italy allied against it, has been making numerous defensive preparations on the southeast frontier. Forts and entrenched camps have been erected at many points, notably Grenoble, Chambery, the neighborhood of Col di Tenda, Nice, and several points between Nice and the Col di Tenda. We Italians, on the other hand, for defensive purposes only, have been fortifying the passes in the Maritime Alps, Col di Tenda, Saluzzo, Ceva and other places. We have also this spring improved our defenses in the direction of Mont Blanc and Mont Ceas, Susa Aosta, etc., have improved the organization of the Alpine troops which already existed. The Alpine peasants are all armed now, and in case of invasion they could form corps, rapidly and defend their native mountains. This last was done quite recently—this spring—and very shortly the new Alpine forces are to meet for their first maneuvers.

Question.—What military course should Italy adopt in the event of war with France?

Answer.—She should attack at once in the southeast, try and audacious policy and overrun Savoy. Italy's most vulnerable points are Mont Cenis and the seaboard from the frontier to Genoa. Knowing that there are numerous accessible points hereabouts and that there are plenty of practicable defiles in the Maritime Alps, France, with her superior fleet, would try to send troops doubtless say from Toulon, the possession of which is of immense advantage to her, to some place near Savona. The latter town, therefore, is being carefully fortified.

Question.—Do you not think an attack might be made further north, through the mountain passes near Chambery?

Answer.—We might be invaded, as I have said, by Mont Cenis or north of it, but it would be very difficult for an army to keep its communications free and assure its being revictualled in the Alps. I think the seacoast about Savona the most vulnerable point in Italy.

In conclusion it is necessary to lay stress on the fact that the distinguished Italian evidently regarded war between France and Italy as quite improbable in the near future. His very frankness, indeed, sufficiently proves this.

FROM OVER THE SEA.

New Guinea Will Not Be Annexed—Who the Notorious Louise Michel Is.

LONDON, July 4.—Mr. Capel is going to America on a lecturing tour.

Prince Bismarck has started from Berlin for Friedrichsruh, whence he will go to Kissingen.

The French Chamber of Deputies has fixed July 10 as the date for the debate on the Tonquin question.

The loss by fire at the establishment of Proctor & Bevington, at Bermondsey, Tuesday, was £20,000.

M. Brun, French Minister of Marine and of the Colonies, will shortly go on a furlough for the benefit of his health.

It is reported that Zukertort, who won the first prize in the recent international chess tournament, is going to America.

M. Bourgeois, Belgian police official, has started for Boston to receive the funds taken by Canon Bernard and found deposited in Boston.

In the House of Lords yesterday afternoon Lord Derby, the Colonial Secretary, said that the Government was not prepared to annex New Guinea, owing to the enormous extent of the territory, the unknown character of the interior of that country and the certainty that the natives would object to annexation.

Mr. Gladstone made a similar statement in the House of Commons. He said: "A despatch will shortly be forwarded to Queensland stating the views of Her Majesty's Government on this question. The annexation of New Guinea is clearly null legally and is not warranted by policy. We are not prepared to confirm the action of the Queensland Government. We think the particular colony of Queensland is not well suited for the functions which it has undertaken to perform. The home government alone will assume the responsibility if such a step should be necessary. There is no reason to believe that other Powers wish to annex New Guinea. The despatch will refer to our intention to strengthen the hand of the High Commissioner in regard to police of the neighboring seas."

PARIS, July 4.—The long mooted question as to where Louise Michel was born is at last settled. She has been claimed, like Homer and Saint Christopher, by nearly a dozen different places. It now turns out that the grande demeure was born in the seigneurial Castle of Vroncourt.

The Figaro publishes her acte de naissance, which runs as follows:—

"Number six, Michel, Louise, year 1830, May twenty-ninth, eight o'clock, evening.

Appeared before us, Etienne Demasie, Mayor of the commune of Vroncourt, canton de Bourmont, Department of the Hauts Marne, and Claude Laumoux, doctor of medicine, domiciled at Bourmont, who declared that on the 20th of May, at five o'clock in the afternoon, la demoiselle Marie Anne Michel, femme de chambre, residing at the Chateau de Vroncourt, gave birth in the said house to a female infant, to which is given the name Louise and the name Michel."

IN a banquet speech at Springfield, Mass., John Kelly criticised Mr. Tilden for not "courageously calling on the people to sustain him in assuming the Presidency of the United States in 1876." He also said that Tilden "tried to get nomination in 1880, and failing in this used his influence in New York to defeat Gen. Hancock."

By an act of the Legislature it is made the duty of the county court of each county in the State, at the term before the August election this year, to appoint tellers in each election district to ascertain and report the number of voters entitled to vote at that election. The information thus furnished is to be used in determining the result of the voting on the question of calling a constitutional convention.

THE Lexington Transcript of the 4th inst. says: A Transcript reporter called at the jail yesterday and interviewed Bulger. He asserts his innocence of the matter. He is rather a good looking yellow boy apparently about twenty years old. There was apparently some lack of consistency about his tale. He said he lived in Cincinnati, and had only been away from there a few days. He confesses to have stolen the skiff, in which he was leaving Maysville when captured, and says he did it for the purpose of saving traveling expenses.

MORMON RECRUITS.

An Instalment of 670 and Not an Irishman Among Them.

NEW YORK, July 4.—The steamship Nevada from Liverpool has brought a steerage full of Mormon recruits. Of the 695 passengers in that part of the ship, 670 being proselytes for Salt Lake. They were of nearly all the European nationalities, but Scandinavians predominated to the extent of nearly 500. There were about 100 English, Welsh and Scotch and a sprinkling of North Germans, French and Swiss. There was not an Irishman among them. It is a curious fact that among the thousands of Mormon immigrants who have passed through Castle Garden—and there are about 2,500 every year—there never was an Irishman discovered. The Nevada's consignment was under the care of twenty-two elders from Salt Lake, who sat at the cabin table while their charges roughed it in the steerage. Elder H. O. Magleby was the chief, and his first assistant was L. R. Christensen. Each elder has been in Europe about two years doing missionary work—preaching the holiness of Mormonism and drumming up recruits for polygamy and Salt Lake. Each elder took a certain territory as his district and each gathered together the band of proselytes whom he had secured, and the whole party joined the steamer at Liverpool.

From the time they were landed at Castle Garden until they took the train at the Erie depot at Jersey City last night the immigrants were watched over by the elders with a jealous eye. They were kept apart from the other passengers, and no Gentile was permitted to speak to them if the missionaries could prevent it. When a Herald reporter who wandered among them stopped to exchange a word with any of the party there was an elder by his side instantly. The proselytes were about equally divided as to the sexes. They were solid, heavy featured and ignorant, but healthy and strong. Most of them were under middle age, and nearly all were married couples with families, there being an unusually large number of children in the party. There were two cripples and three or four decrepit old people, but they all had relatives with them to care for them. Most of them seemed to have a little money and some, the elders said, were very well to do. The cost of the voyage, however, is in all cases advanced by the Salt Lake authorities, it is said, so as to give them a surer hold on the immigrants to prevent any desertions by the way. The Mormon Church government appropriated $5,000 for the expenses of the Nevada party.

The elders strenuously denied that polygamy is any part of their scheme in bringing over these immigrants, and it was evident that the women certainly, if not the men, have no idea of the true inwardness of Mormonism. Several women with whom the reporter had an opportunity to converse hurriedly expressed great surprise and indignation when they were asked if they proposed to share their husbands with other wives. These are an insidious party.

At Fan Clai e, Wis., a severe hail and thunder storm occurred, doing great damage to buildings, crops, etc., and rumors of disasters are constantly coming in. James Riley, a prominent farmer, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The storm was especially severe in the neighborhood of New Chicago and Mandeville, and traveled from there up Beef River, doing great damage. At Mandeville five trains were torn to pieces. Farmer Williams, living between Osceola and Mandeville, Trempealeau county, had five horses and thirteen cattle killed and his building blown down. Two men were badly hurt at New Chicago. The house of George Jacob, in the town of Washington, as it here, was blown to pieces and other damage done.

Death of Rt. Rev. Archbishop Purcell.

GEORGETOWN, O., July 4.—The aged prelate, John Baptist Purcell, at the advanced age of eighty-three, breathed his last yesterday at the Ursuline Convent, Brown county, O. His death has been daily expected for a long time, and it may be said hourly since his late, the fourth, attack of paralysis.

Artillery Experiments in Dahomey.

The San Francisco Post publishes the following interesting contribution to history: "The King of Dahomey received an invoice of Krupp cannon not long ago and conceived the idea of having them mounted on elephants' backs for use in the field. With much difficulty this project was carried out, and at the next military review the King ordered that one of the guns be fired immediately in front of the royal position, first taking the precaution to place a couple of thousand prisoners about where it was calculated the ball would strike, so as to judge of the effectiveness of the shot. When all was ready, one of the biggest elephants was backed round and sighted. Just as the lanyard was jerked, however, the animal turned half round to reach for a peanut or something, and the shell took off the Prime Minister's head and knocked a hole as big as a sewer through the royal palace. His Majesty wouldn't have cared so much if the matter had ended there—as the minister wasn't very prime and the palace needed ventilation—but it didn't. On the contrary, the elephant, which had been stood on his head by the recoil, picked itself up in a fury and started on in the down grade ahead of its ticket. It upset the grand stand the very first rush, slung the Grand Chamberlain and Past Grand Carver of Missionaries into the next street. It then jumped into the brass band with all four feet, and if it hadn't gotten the big drum over his head so that it couldn't see, would probably have cleaned out the entire congregation. The King was not found until the next morning, and then, as he slid down out of a banana tree, he was understood to remark that there was only one thing needed to render his new artillery system an entire success—that was to get the enemy to adopt it."

During the launching of a ship at Glasgow on the 3rd inst., one hundred persons were thrown into the water and drowned.

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 5, 1883.

NEVER go fast
When you ought to go slow,
Never say "yes,"
When you ought to say "No."
But don't creep along
Like a snail, as it were;
And be sure that you don't Say "No" like a cur.

Notice to Subscribers.

The delivery of the DAILY BULLETIN, in Maysville, beginning July 1st, will be entrusted to Mr. William Austin, who will see that its patrons are promptly served with the paper. The subscription price will be considered due each week and will be collected by him every Monday afternoon.

CUBAN STAUDER, a well known colored man, died at Ripley, on the 2d inst., in the 73d year of his age. He removed to that place from Maysville about twenty years ago.

MR. GEORGE W. SMITH's residence in the west end caught fire on Monday, from a defective flue, but the flames were extinguished before any serious damage was done.

THE stage line to the Blue Licks has been discontinued. It will, however, run daily from this city to Mayslick, leaving Maysville at 3 p.m., and arriving from Mayslick, at 9 a.m.

The members of Good Will Lodge No. 46, United Brothers of Friendship, Smith's Camp No. 8, also of Maysville and Smith's Camp No. 7, of Covington, took part in the parade through the streets, and made a very creditable appearance.

REV. O. A. CARR, of Columbia, Mo., a son of Mr. William Carr, of this city, who is at present quite sick, is at home on a visit.

MRS. ILIA M. ESHOM has returned home after a pleasant visit at Covington. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Kate Woodson.

MR. JOHN W. WATSON and wife, Mr. E. H. Watson and Mr. A. H. Thompson and wife are among the late arrivals at the Blue Lick Springs.

MR. J. M. LONG, formerly of Maysville, is a candidate for Sheriff in Brown county, Ohio. If he is as popular in that State as he was in this he will be a hard man to beat.

SOME time ago Mr. C. Cole bought of a gentleman named E. H. McPherson the right in a patent washing machine for Mason county. He sold a good many of them and aided McPherson in selling the right for Fleming county to his cousin, Mr. Watson and Mr. Gault. A short time afterwards a man named E. D. Saunders appeared in Flemingsburg and sold the right in the same machine for Fleming county to Mr. Allie Calvert. Of course, in a few days, the conflicting claims came in contact. Saunders claimed to have bought the right to the whole district, including Mason and Fleming counties from McPherson last fall, and that McPherson was selling the same counties over again. On the strength of his representations, without investigating the merits of Saunders' claim, Cole and Watson took fright and immediately swore out a warrant for McPherson for obtaining money under false pretenses. McPherson was arrested in Cincinnati at the Wehrle House where he had been stopping ever since he left Maysville and of his own free will went over to Covington with the officer and not as reported by any strategem. He was brought to Maysville a week ago, and his trial was postponed until Tuesday. On Tuesday neither Saunders nor Calvert appeared, in fact, nothing has been heard of Calvert since McPherson was arrested, and his case was continued by the Commonwealth until this morning. This morning neither Saunders nor Calvert appeared and there being nothing against McPherson he was discharged. The young men seem to have been scared too soon as from the developments it seems that Saunders was the man who needed investigating, for although he assured the parties that as soon as McPherson was arrested he would be down, yet he has never been seen nor heard of since. The boys can go on and sell their washers undisturbed.

THERE is much complaint by the residents of Front street, about the boys and men who bathe in the river there. Their language is at times so indecent that the people who live in that neighborhood are obliged to confine themselves to the interior of their residences. It is an outrage that this condition of things should be permitted and it ought to be stopped immediately. The bathing should be confined to certain places and forbidden everywhere else.

IN printing the names of Mr. John E. Blaine's associates in the Revenue department who presented him with a service of silver on the occasion of his retirement from office, we accidentally omitted those of Mr. Walter B. Phister and Mr. Charles Sadler. These gentlemen were very active in the movement, and are especial friends of Mr. Blaine's. Their names should have been attached to the list published.

Accidentally Killed.

DAVID BRAMBLE, a young man who was serving his time as a blacksmith's apprentice, at Dexter, this county, accidentally shot and killed himself on Monday, the 2nd inst., with a pistol he was carelessly handling. A coroner's jury viewed the remains and rendered a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

POSTOFFICE affairs under the new official are moving along smoothly.

A LITTLE seven years old son of Mrs. J. B. NOYES, on Tuesday, fell from a tree at the family residence near this city, and broke his left arm near the elbow. The little sufferer's injuries were attended to by Dr. James Shackleford, assisted by Dr. John Phister and Dr. H. K. Adamson. The fracture was a very bad one and required the removal of a part of the bone.

THE EAGLE, in speaking of the Bulger rape case, truthfully says: Any manifestation of violence or undue excitement will only postpone and delay the administration of justice. There is no ground for a change of venue now, but rash and headstrong persons can easily justify and make necessary such action. The speediest way of enforcing justice will be to keep cool and level heads and let the law have its course.

COUNTY PHINS.

STONE LICK.

MR. H. CLAY STONE had a valuable mare to crippled herself by falling in the tether.

The good women of Maysville say their landslides are too lazy to help them when we would advise them to not let them eat or sleep at home. Ladies try that and see how it would work. We think they would come to time.

MRS. ANNIE BRITTON, of Maysville, has made application as teacher of our school district, she taught our subscription school last year.

A Spaulding school convention was held at Talleboro last Sunday. We have not heard who addressed the children, but presume the children and all enjoyed it.

Sunday was an idle day. No preaching at any of our places of worship, consequently some of our young men went bathing and some went to see the ladies.

MR. H. CLAY STONE and wife, Mr. J. H. Wallingford and wife, of the Mt. Gilead neighborhood, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wallingford last week.

THE gentleman who had "missed" the young lady, has been seen on a few weeks' visit, but that he is not married and so on, but that he was too much engrossed with business to think of his many friends. We think the gentleman is a good man.

A couple of young gentlemen paying their respects to the young lady, to avoid embarrassments by meddling in her home, bargained that one should go on the rainy sun-days and the other the dry ones. We suppose it is satisfactory to all parties. They live not far from Fern Leaf.

A very handsome young lady used in the other day in a certain young gentleman, a friend of ours, "ever told stories." We replied that we would not stand surety for her, but that she had a good name and so on, but that she was too much engrossed with business to think of his many friends. We think the gentleman is a good man.

THE BULLETIN has very much improved in appearance and interest. It certainly should be patronized by all our home Democrats and news buying people. How much better it would be for good people to spend their leisure moments improving their ad instead of the useless and meaningless "gossip" that so many indulge in. Both editor and proprietors are good steady gentlemen. It is very enjoyable to visit the section.

MRS. STEPHEN HARRISON is lying dangerously ill. Her life is despaired of.

A WHOLE FAMILY

Instantly Ushered Into Eternity.
CINCINNATI, July 4.—Shortly after nine o'clock last night a most appalling accident occurred at the intersection of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad and the Winton Place road, just north of Spring Grove Cemetery, whereby Henry Kracke, his wife, and four of their children were instantly killed and horribly mangled by the incoming express train on the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad.

Henry Kracke was an invalid, and resided with three of his sons, one a lad of seventeen and the others mere boys, on a farm seven miles from the city, on the Winton road, where he was engaged in raising small vegetables. His wife lived at 168 Everett street, where she kept a rag-shop, with their remaining four children, John, aged nineteen; Annie, sixteen; Maggie, thirteen, and Lizzie, seven years of age. Yesterday afternoon Kracke drove into the city with his one-horse spring-wagon, for the purpose of taking his wife and the four children named out to his farm to spend the Fourth of July. Closing her store a little earlier than usual, Mrs. Kracke and her children, together with Adolph Betsch, aged twenty, a blacksmith in the employ of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road, got into the wagon with Mr. Kracke and started for the farm. All went smoothly, the occupants of the wagon happy in anticipation of the pleasant time they expected to have to day, until the Winton road, which is the northern boundary of Spring Grove Cemetery, was reached. About 300 feet west of Spring Grove avenue the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad crosses this road, and being outside of the city limits, there are no safety gates at the crossing.

Driving up this road Kracke tried to cross the railroad track before the incoming New York express of the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Road, but when half way across the track the engine, No. 9, Dan Boyer engineer, struck the wagon, breaking it into pieces and killing all occupants except Betsch, who saved his life by jumping and escaped with only a broken arm and some severe bruises on his right side. The train was due in the city at 8:55, and at the time of the accident—9:10—was nearly an hour behind time, and running at the rate of thirty miles an hour. The engineer states that he did not see the wagon until his engine was within twenty feet of it, and then of course, nothing could be done to avert the catastrophe. As soon as possible the train was stopped and backed to the scene of the accident, and the bodies of Kracke and his wife and the four unfortunate children were placed in the buggies car, together with the injured Betsch, and brought to the city, when the patrol wagon was summoned by Officers Lippen and Spillman, and the six bodies removed to Habig's, where they were viewed by Coroner Muscovo, and then prepared for burial. Betsch was taken to the hospital, where his broken arm was set and his other injuries attended to.

Who Sent General Crook to West Point?

WASHINGTON, July 4.—General Bob Schenck has left for Cobourg, greatly regretting that his engagements prevented him from awaiting the arrival of General Crook, whom he sent to West Point when a boy from near Dayton, O. Talking to a reporter about Crook and his appointment, he said:

"I had looked over the district to find a bright lad to nominate to West Point. I finally remembered that Squire Crook, a fine old Whig farmer and a friend of mine, had two boys, and I sent word for him to come to town. He came in and I inquired if he had a spare boy he'd like to send off to West Point.

"After studying awhile he said he did not know but he had. I suggested that he send him in. The boy sent was exceedingly uncommunicative. He had not a stupid look, but was quiet or reticent. He did not seem to have the slightest interest or anxiety about my proposal. I explained to him the requirements and the labors of the military schools, and asked him: 'Do you think you can conquer all that?' His monosyllabic reply was 'I'll try.' And so I sent him, and he came through fairly."

CONDENSED NEWS.

At Lancaster, Ont., Wood's general store, McCammon's store, and Postoffice and private dwelling burned by lightning. Loss $20,000.

INFORMATION from Port Republic, Va., is that Elam's condition is improved. He rested well all day, and the wound is doing well. If no new complications appear it is expected he will be in a condition to be taken home in about a week.

The libel suit of E. J. Lehman, who conducts a sort of "Cheap John" store on a very large scale, against the Chicago Herald for derogatory statements regarding his reputation, which has been on trial for two weeks, concluded with a verdict for $25,000 damages against that paper.

At Moore's Hill, Ind., sparks from a locomotive on the Ohio & Mississippi railroad set fire to the hay warehouse belonging to Wolford Daughters. The warehouse and its contents of hay were soon consumed. The wires of the Western Union Telegraph Company were destroyed and connection broken. Loss, $400; no insurance.

Miss ZOE VANDYKE, whose alleged miraculous cure of a huge tumor on the neck caused such a sensation last fall, and which evoked so much scepticism among the surgeons, many of whom publicly denied the possibility of a tumor being removed by prayer, has returned to Erie, from Chicago and submitted to the knife. After removal the tumor weighed seventy pounds.

ABRAM COPPERNOLL, a farmer of the town of Victory, N. Y., was shot three times with a large navy revolver by Lew French, a young farm laborer, whose suspected intimacy with Coppernoll's wife was the cause of the trouble. The wife was present at the shooting and ordered French to fire. Both are under arrest. The victim will die, all three shots taking effect in the body.
